Cummins College of Engineering wins second prize in skit competition

CSIR-NEERI organized skit and short film making competition on 22 nd march 2017 on the occasion of 25 th world water day to spread awareness on water management. Total ten groups participated in this skit competition. Maharshi Karve Stree Shikshan Samstha's Cummins College of Engineering for Women hold first runner position in skit competition. Total seven girls participated in the skit. Skit was very well appreciated and applauded by the audience as it was relating each and every personnel to his day to day life. The theme of the mime was kept very simple based on water wastage which is usually seen in our daily life. Going into the skit it was shown that one girl had a nightmare in which she saw how water is wasted during brushing teeth's where the taps are usually kept open and also during festivals like Holi, Ganesh Visarjan in which gallons of water is wasted and polluted that too in a country where rivers are depicted as goddessess in mythology. Girls acted fantastically in their mime and gave a social message to all not to waste water in the background slideshow was also shown about these practice of wasting water.

Principal Dr. BP Joshi encouraged students to participate and Mr. M. Kukade chairman MKSSS, Nagpur congratulated the team and appreciated student's efforts.
